Dear Friends,

Jesus said, "The harvest is abundant but the laborers are few; so ask the master of the harvest to send out laborers for his harvest." With these words in mind I ask you to join me in a renewed zeal to fulfill the call of the Blessed Virgin Mary that we keep the doors of St. Stanislaus Kostka open for the purpose of merciful healing and an encounter with the Lord and His Mother – an encounter that moves us to a deeper sense that we must not be on the sidelines.

They call you and I call you into the unfolding drama of God's action in the world today. Let this Sanctuary of the Divine Mercy be a place of reference for the challenges we face together. We are all suffering something and we need each other. May the Rosary be the chain that binds us tightly together for the cause of Our Lady to bring us into the mission of her Son. This call goes out to you from this Sanctuary of the Divine Mercy at St. Stanislaus Kostka here in the heart of Chicago. Make it the place from where you move into action. More later.

Sincerely in Christ,

Fr. Anthony
